STATEMENT OF THE PROBLEM

- SPECTACULAR NIGHTTIME 'BARIUM CLOUD' LAUNCHES FOR IONOSPHERIC RESEARCH HAVE BEEN WIDELY WITNESSED FOR ALMOST SIXTY YEARS
- FROM THE BEGINNING THEY HAVE SPARKED WIDESPREAD WITNESS REPORTS OF UFOS AND OTHER ANOMALOUS INTERPRETATIONS
- SERIOUS UFO RESEARCHERS HAVE KNOWN THIS FROM THE START
- NEVERTHELESS, PUBLIC PANICS CONTINUE – MOST RECENTLY AND SPECTACULARLY AROUND NORTHERN NORWAY ON APRIL 5, 2019.
- PART 1 OF THIS REPORT TREATS THAT EVENT IN DETAIL
- PART 2 PROVIDES A HISTORICAL OVERVIEW OF 'BARIUM CLOUD' EVENTS
- PART 3 TREATS ONE OF THE MOST DISMAYING LAPSES IN UFO RESEARCH HISTORY, THE FAILURE TO RECOGNIZE THE 'JIMMY CARTER UFO' STORY FROM 1969 AS A ROUTINE, WELL-DOCUMENTED, WELL-PUBLICIZED NASA BARIUM CLOUD ROCKET LAUNCH

REPORT METHODOLOGY

- RATHER THAN A SIMPLE OVERVIEW OF THE CONFLICTING INTERPRETATIONS OF THESE APPARITIONS, THIS REPORT IS INTENDED TO BE A THOROUGH RESOURCE FOR FUTURE RESEARCHERS
- AS SUCH, IT COLLECTS AND GROUPS INFORMATION WHICH IN THE FUTURE MAY BE MORE DIFFICULT TO LOCATE AND OBTAIN
- THIS APPROACH INVOLVES LOTS AND LOTS OF RAW DATA
- CASUAL READERS MAY FEEL FREE TO GET THE FLAVOR OF EACH SECTION AND THEN SKIP FORWARD TO THE NEXT THEME
- ANY ATTEMPT TO EDIT DOWN OR SUMMARIZE PUBLIC REACTIONS TO THESE EVENTS RAISES THE CHANCE OF SUBCONSCIOUS EDITING BY THE AUTHOR, BY OMISSION, BY STRESSING, OR BY REWORDING

September 24: Four-stage Javelin sounding rocket launched from NASA Wallops Station ejected multicolored barium clouds over eastern U.S. at 310-mi. (499-km.) and 570-mi. (917-km.) altitudes. Cooperative NASA-German Ministry of Scientific Research (BMWF) experiment measured electric fields and wind motion in upper atmosphere by photographing and tracking ionized clouds; secondary objective was observation of interaction between cloud and solar wind. Launch was followed by reported sightings of "brilliant" Ufo's. (NASA Release 66-245; Wallops Releases 66-46, 66-48; AP, Wash. Post, 9/25/66, A23; AP, Wash. Sun. Star, 9/25/66, A3; NASA Rpt. ### 15) Clouds

4 reports—less than 1 per cent of all NL IFOs

Nothing fancy was reported in this category. Take case 388, where the “UFO” seen at ten o'clock at night grew large, “became like a cloud,” and dissipated. In case 813, three “fuzzy” ovals slightly larger than stars were seen near the full moon at 11:30 P.M., moving erratically and silently for fifteen minutes; then they disappeared rapidly. The most noteworthy case was the one that attracted a lot of attention in Los Angeles. I received two independent reports of “fluorescent blue, ill-formed ovals” which were observed for as long as three hours. These were mostly stationary or were seen to move over Los Angeles. Griffith Park Observatory received even more calls that night; they were quite familiar with this effect from past experience and confirmed that it was only clouds illuminated by city lights.

16) Test Clouds

4 reports—less than 1 per cent of all NL IFO's

The NASA installation at Wallops Island, Virginia, sometimes releases glowing clouds of sodium or barium gases high in the atmosphere for research purposes which can be seen over a large portion of the eastern United States. Four reports came in based on two such launches. These are usually seen as spherical clouds which grow larger over a one-hour period or so, changing colors (e.g. “a round glow with blue-tinted edge”—case 358). Both of these launches occurred in the early evening.

Sounding Rocket Mission Will Trace Auroral Winds

- Editor's note, April 8, 2019: The Auroral Zone Upwelling Rocket Experiment or AZURE mission was successfully conducted April 5 from the Andøya Space Center in Norway. The first Black Brant XI sounding rocket was launched at 6:14 p.m. EDT [22:14 GMT] and flew to an altitude of 200 miles, followed by the launch of the second Black Brant XI at 6:16 p.m. EDT [22:15 GMT] flying to an altitude of 202 miles. The initial assessment from the field showed that the rockets were launched into a good science event and ground based photos/data of the vapor releases were obtained from at least two locations. Preliminary reports state that the scientist for the mission were very pleased with the results.

A SCIENTIST'S REPORT // <https://youtu.be/YD4ghvmREI8>

- I'm at Alomar Observatory in northern Norway as part of the AZURE mission (Auroral Zone Upwelling Rocket Experiment). Two rockets were launched from Andøya Space Center, and my part was to help with optical observations from the nearby highpoint here at Alomar Observatory. I've been here a week waiting for both the weather and the science conditions to cooperate for the launch, but the mission has been waiting for a launch much longer than that - they tried to launch last year but after waiting for two weeks they never found the right conditions, and I think the same might have happened the year before (2017). So this launch was a long time coming.
- The AZURE mission used sounding rockets to release these glowing tracer clouds in the upper atmosphere, from around 100km to up to 250km altitude. Observers at the ground sites (like me) then use optical instruments - which are mostly off-the-shelf dSLR cameras - to track the way the clouds move over the next ~30 minutes. This allows investigators to learn about the winds and magnetic fields at these altitudes.

I was capturing northern lights in Kurjenrahka National Park in Southern Finland when I witnessed strange lights in the sky. It turned out to be two AZURE project rockets launched from Andøya Space Center to investigate conditions inside aurora borealis.

Näytti kuin hiukkaskimppuja olisi törmännyt magneettikenttään, sillä ensin ilmestyi revontulien värisiä palloja, jotka muuttuivat sinivioletiksi, ja niitä tuli useampi peräkkäin ensin yhdessä rivissä ja sitten toisessa sen viereen. Kuvista näyttää niinkuin jotain olisi pudonnut alas, mutta mitään ääniä en havainnut. Lopulta taivaalle jäi leijumaan siniviolettien pilvet, jotka hajosivat hiljalleen suuremmalle alueelle, mutta valaisivat pitkään. Katselin ilmiötä puolisen tuntia ja samat siniviolettien pilvet leijuivat vielä kotiin lähtiessäkin siellä ja olivat tosi kirkkaita ja erottuvia. #ra...

It seemed as if the bundles of particles had come into the magnetic field, because first the northern lights, which turned into blue violet, appeared, and they came in succession first in one row and then in another. The pictures look like something would have fallen down, but no noises. Eventually, the blue violets remained in the sky like clouds, which slowly disintegrated into a larger area, but illuminated for a long time. I looked at the phenomenon for half an hour, and the same blue-violet clouds still hovered home while leaving there and were really bright and distinctive.

NASA запустило ракеты внутрь

В пятницу в небе над Норвегией начали замечать странные яркие огни, которые многие приняли за НЛО. Но пришельцы здесь ни при чем: оказалось, что в этот день NASA проводило эксперимент по изучению атмосферы Земли. На высоту свыше 100 километров были запущены ракеты, которые распылили в небе специальные вещества, которые светятся при реакции с атмосферой. Наблюдение за их движением и было частью эксперимента, который оказался очень зрелищным.

NASA launches rockets inside the aurora: an exciting experiment video

On Friday, strange bright lights that many mistook for UFOs began to be noticed in the skies over Norway. But aliens have nothing to do with it: it turned out that on this day NASA conducted an experiment to study the Earth's atmosphere. To a height of over 100 kilometers, rockets were launched that sprayed special substances in the sky that glow during reaction with the atmosphere. Watching their movement was part of an experiment that turned out to be very spectacular.

Commentator 'He Ju' denounces air poisoning

How dare NASA claim the chemicals they blasted into the atmosphere and which will rain down onto Earth are harmless? Are they kidding us? They used aluminum and a strontium/barium mixture --- all of which are clearly toxic (dementia, cancer, hormone disrupting, etc.). These are the same chemicals found in decades-old geoengineering patents (where these elements are dispersed by planes into the stratosphere and obviously lower altitudes, as we can observe with the naked eye if we bother to observe the sky). Among other things, aluminum has been shown to inhibit plant growth (making trees and brush more susceptible to pest infections weakening the plants; destroying phytoplankton, our oxygen providers) and since it's a dessicant and highly flammable, it contributes to wildfires. Aside from that, the use of these chemicals in our atmosphere are destroying the ozone layer, which is obviously already damaged if you expose yourself to the sun nowadays; it's burning more than ever as UVC (C!) is now measurable on the surface of the planet; obviously, all life on Earth will be toast when the ozone layer is gone and we're on the fast way to this point. It is worthwhile to educate oneself about all this; one site that has a LOT of unbiased information (incl. NASA pictures, lab analysis) on this entire, unfortunate matter is <http://www.GeoengineeringWatch.org> Learn, then all the nice artificially made auroras will have a different meaning to you as well.

- Eric Younger == They look like puffs of smoke being illuminated from the ground
- Ron Comfort == Why I tend to think the Norway video could be legitimate is not just the lights but listen to the breathing you hear in the background. It sounds like either the camera man or somebody there in the background is breathing pretty hard and it just sounds like they're kind of freaking out. In other words they sound like they're about to mess their pants. If most of us saw a UFO for real, I suspect most of us would be pretty freaked
- KoaBosk == The last one with the clouds, I'm wondering if those are diatoms. They are single cell organisms in the ocean that flicker and glow different colors when you interact with them. It's possible they could be picked up in a storm on the coast and be subject to be suspended in the clouds. Since they're single cell organisms are much smaller than a raindrop so they could easily be suspended in the air in the updraft of a storm cloud.

Mysterious Lofoten Lights, by MerkabaMeditation

<http://www.abovetopsecret.com/forum/thread1235898/pg1>

- Last night a spectacular light show covered the night sky over Lofoten in Norway, hundreds of concerned citizens called the police which were quick to blame the lights on a rocket launch from a nearby facility. But was it really a rocket launch? At least to me it looks like no rocket launch I've ever seen.... Is the rocket launch claim by the authorities just a cover story - see the video and decide for yourself.
- waftist == Notice the ginormous spotlight over the mountains at 1:11.
- Yes, I saw that. What could cause that whole mountain side to be lit up like that - did the lights in the sky lit it up? Also, notice the little "star" that appears at the very start and seems to be inspecting the whole spectacle, moving from above the lights and downwards to the left very slowly? It's faint but you can see the tiny star moving throughout the entire video.
- waftist == Good eye and I suspect it is a helicopter observing/filming event

It was a crazy experience. It quickly turned out to be two rockets from NASA, launched from Andøya Space Center, the AZURE mission.
- el_Camello == whoever thinks this is an experiment caused by NASA rockets is so gullible, throwing chemicals on auroras doesn't require this beautiful display, this display is something else, I don't know what but it's definitely not what NASA is claiming.... Why is this beautiful geometric light display needed to simply spray chemicals on auroras for an experiment, makes no sense if NASA hadn't claimed this as an experiment I'd be almost certain this is a hoax, looks too sci-fi... but since it's been claimed by NASA it must've really happened due to the aurora borealis phenomenon surely many people would capture this from different angles I'm surprised this isn't all over the news worldwide, it's truly an anomaly that's never been seen before
- Thiago Schrago == Rockets ??? go to hell NASA we are not fool! this is clearly an alien object.
- EA J == Since when do rockets do that??? Why is this the first time they've done that exact type of experiment when Aurora Borealis has been happening for centuries.

NASA / SOUNDING ROCKETS / Tracers - Clouds and Trails

First used with sounding rockets flown in the 1950's, scientific research with experiments which inject vapor tracers in the upper atmosphere have greatly aided our understanding of our planet's near-space environment. These materials make visible the naturally occurring flows of ionized and neutral particles either by luminescing at distinct wavelengths in the visible and infrared part of the spectrum or by scattering sunlight.

BARIUM ROCKETS OF THE PAST, IN THE PUBLIC EYE AND MIND

<https://www.space.com/19521-nasa-rocket-night-sky-lights-launch.html>

- NASA used to conduct chemical cloud experiments from Wallops Island much more frequently during the 1960s, '70s and '80s, usually in the predawn hours when most people were asleep. Chemicals such as tri-methyl aluminum, barium and tri-ethylborane were used, often creating rather exotic colors of red, green and purple.
- When such launches took place during convenient evening hours they usually took people by surprise. In March 1967, when three clouds were released around 7 p.m. they were followed by countless numbers of people all along the East Coast calling newspapers and police stations, asking for explanations of the strange sightings. One man described the rocket residue as "red balls of fire."
- In January 1975, a barium cloud was released at around 5:30 p.m. in the evening. As luck would have it, the town of Riverhead, N.Y., was hit by a power outage at the very same moment that the cloud appeared in the sky.
- This resulted in a panic among the local residents who believed that the cloud had something to do with the loss of their power. One man called the local police station and shouted: "We're being invaded! I can see the spaceship in the sky right now ... it's glowing with a greenish color and expanding as it's draining us of our electric power!"

Apr 22, 1966 over Algeria

- The article (in Spanish) is entitled “La experiencia espacial del 22 de abril de 1966” (The Space Experiment of April 22, 1966). It deals with a space test—the release of barium clouds in the atmosphere—achieved through a rocket launched from the French base of Hammaguir, Algeria. The optical output of this scientific experiment transcended frontiers and was visually and photographically detected from many places in Spain and other European countries. The authors have analyzed a sample of reported observations, showing revealing findings. The proper reference link follows:
- https://www.academia.edu/36433365/La\_experiencia\_espacial\_del\_22\_de\_abril\_de\_1966
- Abstract
- Rocket sounding of the atmosphere was a usual activity during last half of 20th century. One such test was done on April 22nd, 1966. A Rubis rocket launched from the French base of Hammaguir released two loads of metallic chemicals, producing ionizing clouds in the atmosphere that were seen from several points across Europe. This work gathers most of those sightings and compares reported variables like elevation, distance, direction, and apparent size against the calculated trajectory of the rocket and clouds. The fallibility of human observation is reviewed. A coincidental but unrelated UFO sighting in New Mexico (USA) is also presented and explained.

Jan 16, 1967 launches

- In order to get a better understanding of what TMA releases look like, the Jan 16, 1967 launches seem indicative. There were three launches that day with one that was barium and two TMA. The one that occurred at 6:48 am EST was TMA. Articles states the release was a green or blue-green and tinged with red. Some called it a streak, some called it a cloud. Some said it lasted 30 minutes. The articles generally incorrectly attribute the cloud to barium (one article I previously sent had it as TMA). Another report stated that people saw the TMA launch all the way from New Orleans, Nashville, Birmingham and Beaumont Texas.
- Back to the Jimmy Carter sighting on Jan 6, 1969 at 7:15-7:30 pm, I suppose it could be due to the prior launch (barium release) at Jan 6, 1969 at 23:41 GMT if they really persist for 30 minutes.
- Sent: Wednesday, January 18, 2017 8:11:04 AM
Subject: Re: Sheaffer story, how to cite your contribution?
- To clarify, I think the Wikipedia barium cloud theory has the wrong rocket (the launch time doesn't work and it is a TMA cloud release). So it seems like it is most likely be the prior rocket (barium cloud release). They would not likely launch the one rocket when the cloud of the other still persisted, so the one that launched at 7:35 pm would have no other cloud to compete with. Maybe this explains how Carter saw it dissipate (or recede).

Eerie Blue-Green Streak Explained

Early risers in the area were puzzled by an eerie blue-green streak appearing in the skies over the Southeast this morning, but as in most cases of past strange sightings in the sky, science had an answer.

Officials at Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., reported the streak was a colored vapor trail from a small weather test rocket launched at 5:48 a.m.

It was shortly after this that residents began noticing the streak. FAA at Selman Field reported hearing of sightings as far north as Memphis, Tenn., and as far west as Texarkana.

The rocket was said by officials at Eglin AFB to be the first in a series of tests designed to measure wind speeds and direction in the upper atmosphere.

Two more of the two-stage Nike-Iroquois rockets were to be released later today, according to officials, one at 5:34 p.m. and the other at 6:04 p.m.

The vaporized barium payload, designed to be released at altitudes ranging from 50 to 125 miles, gave off a light green cloud, tinged with red and dark blue. It formed an elongated pattern along the lines of the earth's magnet field, according to a base spokesman.

The cloud was visible for about a half hour.

Two additional rockets are set to be launched Tuesday at an undetermined time, a base official said.

But, while the streak was readily explained, no explanation was given for the glowing object which was sighted moving above the streak in a northeasterly direction.

Green Clouds Created By Rocket Start

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (UPI)—The Air Force said it launched a high altitude probe rocket early today and its green cloud prompted calls of inquiry from as far distant as New Orleans and Beaumont, Tex.

The cloud was created when a two-stage Nike Iroquois rocket released a barium payload in the upper atmosphere to determine wind direction and speed. The cloud was green in color and visible in many areas for more than 30 minutes.

The Air Force said it began its series of six tests with a shot last week which failed to fire its second stage. Two other launches were scheduled later today, at 5:34 and 6:04 p.m. CST.

The Air Force and weather bureaus in Mobile and Pensacola reported calls from New Orleans, Nashville, Birmingham and Florida and Texas points.

Two more launches are scheduled Tuesday, but no times were available. Today's rocket was launched at 5:48 a.m.

The launches released the barium at altitudes ranging from 50 to 125 miles. The barium created a cloud which formed an elongated shape along the lines of the earth's magnetic field.

NEITHER, SAYS USAF Was It Turkey Feathers Or Men From Outer Space

ATLANTA (AP) — It came from the east. Some say it looked like green vapor with a band of lights.

Others claim they saw three concentric circles, pink and green, with turkey feathers.

One Georgian reported he saw something that looked like "a man jumping from an airplane—real slow like. Different colors were coming from it."

Scores of other Georgians were also puzzled or alarmed Monday night when they saw what appeared to be cigar or disc-shaped colored clouds in the sky.

A celestial visitation?

Sorry, earth folk. It's only the Air Force experimenting.

Officials at Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., said they launched three Nike-Iroquois rockets to begin tests of wind in the upper atmosphere

Chemicals released 100 nautical miles above the earth emitted green, red and blue clouds seen in Savannah, Atlanta and other Southeast cities—and even as far west as East Texas and Oklahoma.

Three rockets were launched between 5:30 and 6 p.m. Soon, Georgians were reporting everything from blue streaks to red rays to an invasion.

If you missed the celestial happening, officials at the base have arranged for a rerun Wednesday afternoon

"I'd heard of flying saucers and said it was ridiculous. But I saw this thing and it got closer and closer until it was over a tree about 200 yards away. Oh, it was huge."

Green Cloud Is Released

EGLIN AFB, Fla. (UPI)—The Air Force planned to paint the sky horror-movie green again today.

The blue-green - tinged - with-red cloud is hung about 100 miles over this panhandle Florida Air Force base to experiment with air currents. The project is a research study by the Cambridge Laboratory here.

No time was set for today's experiment.

The clouds are made by chemical vapor called barium which is released by a two-stage Nike-Iroquois rocket.

The effect is somewhat startling. The dawn Monday was blotted by a weird green cloud and startled southeastern United States residents called Weather Bureau and Federal Aviation Agency officials to report unidentified flying objects.

Monday at dusk the Air Force shot up two more rockets. The effect was the same. Switchboards from Tennessee to South Carolina were busy.

An Air Force spokesman said the cloud doesn't dissipate for about 30 minutes. It can be seen for 300 miles as it drifts along the earth's magnetic field in a northerly direction.

Air Force scientists use time lapse cameras to photograph the cloud's development and movement.

• PART 3: 1969-2019 – JIMMY CARTER'S 'UFO'

Jimmy Carter's "UFO", barium rockets, and 'ufology'

- No public treatment of the UFO subject is complete without at least a mention that President Jimmy Carter filed a UFO report that supposedly remains unexplained to this day.
- As with most other "celebrity UFO evidence", such reports are generally considered exempt from any need for independent validation, perhaps out of concern that discovery of a prosaic solution could dilute the public relations value of the celebrity's fame.
- Carter's 1973 written report [filed at the request of a UFO researcher who heard him mention it] contained numerous memory lapses regarding location and date of the four-years-earlier sighting, errors all of which went undetected by every UFO expert who subsequently exploited the story in their publicity.
- When the correct date [Jan 6, 1969] and location [and additional witnesses] were identified by "UFO skeptic" Robert Sheaffer, a plausible astronomical explanation [Venus] was suggested but not proven.
- MORE

- As further newspaper archives became available online, numerous local newspaper articles the next day were found that described other witness reports of the same phenomenon.
- The true date and time and viewing direction were then found to coincide nicely with a recorded launch of a NASA 'barium rocket' from nearby Eglin AFB. Even sightings records of some private UFO registration websites turned out to have such reports.
- As far as is known, not a single UFO-promoting writer or researcher made the connection.
- The fact that the story remains such a central theme of modern 'ufology' is due to a mixture of Innocent incompetence, convenient self-delusion, and strategic public disinformation, in an as-yet undefined mixture ratio of specific responsibilities.

The Presidential X-Files: How Jimmy Carter Filed a UFO-Sighting Report in 1973

NEWS 2:27 PM PDT, September 13, 2016 - Sal Bono

2:27 PM PDT, September 13, 2016 - Sal Bono

“In October 1969, a young Georgia politician was leaving a fundraiser when he spotted a large object glowing in the sky... There is no reasonable explanation for what Carter saw that October night, but it continued to occupy his mind.”

Grant Cameron on Carter's experience

http://www.presidentialufo.com/old\_site/jimmy\_carter's\_ufo\_sighting.htm
and http://www.noufors.com/President Jimmy Carter's ufo sighting.html

- Carter's UFO sighting began shortly after dark on a windless night. Jimmy Carter was standing outside the Lion's Club in Leary, Georgia, waiting for a meeting to start. Suddenly, he and ten or more witnesses, sighted a red and green orb radiating in the western sky. Carter described an object that "it seemed to move towards us from a distance, stop, move partially away, return, then depart. Bluish at first; then reddish - luminous - not solid."
- "At times," reported Carter, "it was as bright as the moon, and about as big as the moon - maybe a bit smaller. The object was luminous; not solid."
- In an interview with the Atlanta Constitution, Carter described the moving nature of the event. He described the sighting as a "very remarkable sight." This is an important event, because many of the skeptical investigations done on the Carter sighting, have tried to paint the event as a ho-hum occurrence. None of the descriptions Carter has made of the event have ever described it as ho-hum.
- ....At a Southern Governors Conference a few years after the sighting, Carter stated "I don't laugh at people anymore when they say they've seen UFOs. I've seen one myself. It was the darndest thing I have ever seen. It was big, it was bright, it changed colors and it was about the size of the moon." In 1975, Carter again mentioned the UFO as he was campaigning for President. He told a Washington Post reporter, "A light appeared and disappeared in the sky. It got brighter and brighter . . . I have no idea what it was . . . I think the light was beckoning me to run in the California primary."

Cameron 2

- Jimmy Carter's mother Lillian also confirmed that Carter had been very impressed by what he had seen. "The UFO made a huge impression on Jimmy," she stated. "He told me about the sighting many times. He's always been a down-to-earth no-nonsense boy, and the sighting by him, as far as I am concerned, is as firm as money in the bank."
- Carter had, in fact, described the UFO sighting many times in the years since it occurred. In every instance, including the latest known telling of the story at Emory University in 1997, Carter has never backed off on the spectacular nature of the event. He has also never conceded that what he saw was some misidentification of a natural phenomena.
- Carter estimated that the object was three hundred to one thousand yards away. He estimated that the event had lasted 10 minutes. Then the object disappeared. Carter was so impressed by what he had seen, he recorded his impressions of the event on a tape recorder at the time.
- .... Regardless of what the future President saw on that cold clear night in 1969, it greatly impressed him. He spoke of the sighting to many people including his Press Secretary Jody Powell. Asked about the UFO event Powell said, "I do remember Jimmy saying that he did, in fact, see a strange light or object at night in the sky which did not appear to be a star or planet or anything that he could explain. If that's your definition of an Unidentified Flying Object, then I suppose that is correct...I would venture to say he has probably seen stranger and more unexplainable things than that just during his time in government."

Walter Wurfel, White House Deputy Press Secretary, statement of February 28, 1977

“Whatever statement you saw concerning President Carter’s view on UFOs was not exactly what he said. He had seen something that he thought was unexplainable that possibly might have been a UFO and he will certainly disclose and describe any unusual phenomena he might see. He is committed to the fullest possible openness in government and would support full disclosure of material that was not defense sensitive that might relate to UFOs. He did not, however, pledge to “make every piece of information concerning the UFOs available to the public.” There might be some aspects of some sightings that would have defense implications that possibly should be safe-guarded against immediate and full disclosure.”

Jan 2017 -- MUFON's executive director Jan Harzan

- JC: Who are some famous people who've said they have seen UFOs?
- JH: Well my two favorites are a President and one of our original seven Mercury astronauts: Jimmy Carter and Gordon Cooper. President Carter had his sighting while governor of Georgia in 1969 at a talk he was giving to the Lion's Club. He and a dozen other people witnessed a strong blue light in the sky which he could not explain. The Governor was interviewed by a UFO investigator and his report was filed with his signature on it. One may see this report on the Internet by googling, "Jimmy Carter UFO report." Based on personal experience with this UFO, Carter vowed in 1975 that if elected President he would make every file the U.S. Government had on UFOs available to the public. Of course, we know that never happened. Who stopped him? Isn't the President the most powerful man in the world?
- The second and more interesting is two sightings astronaut Gordon Cooper had as an Air Force F86 Fighter pilot over Europe in 1951. where he actually chased a UFO. Later, as a Major at Edwards AFB in the late 1950s, a crew he was in charge of actually filmed a saucer-shaped craft descend at Edwards, extend landing gear and land. All of this was caught on motion picture film as well as in still photographs. If you 'd like to know what happened to the film and photographs, read chapter 4 of Cooper's autobiography, "Leap of Faith." Suffice it to say, this whole subject is tightly controlled by the intelligence community in concert with the U.S. military. In the words of Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid, "Who are those guys?" and what is it that they don't want you and I to know?

UFO? No, It's Just Us

Hundreds of Atlantans had the same question Tuesday night: "What's that up in the sky?"

A slightly flustered U.S. Air Force answered: "It's just us."

The U.S. Weather Bureau and the Atlanta Airport control tower were flooded in the early evening with calls about unidentified flying objects described variously as "green clouds . . . a red moon . . . a kind of cookie thing . . . a bunch of dots."

The culprit, it turned out, was an ultra-high altitude weather balloon launched by a rocket from Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., about 40 miles east of Pensacola. The device is designed to release barium gas, which reflects various colors when hit by sunlight hundreds of thousands of feet above the earth.

The weather balloon was actually high over Eglin, but its great altitude made it appear as though it was just south of Atlanta.

An Air Force spokesman in Florida said the balloon was seen as far away as Miami. The usual procedure is to make an announcement about the tests, but this time the balloon was seen from greater distances than usual.

An Air Force officer told a reporter, "Don't worry. It's just us."

Strange Lights Seen Over Greenwood

By CHARLES MOORE
Index-Journal Reporter

Strange lights in the sky were reported in the Greenwood area about 7 p.m. last night and the description given corresponds with those seen in Greenville.

Sid Summer had given his telephone number to The Index-Journal yesterday for anyone to call who wanted to report unidentified flying objects and he had several calls the first night.

One was from a woman at Harris, he said. She gave the following report:

SHE AND A GROUP of girls were outside waiting to go in for a meeting. All of them saw a bright white light in the sky, "bigger than the moon." An orange ball came out of the side of it, became bright red and then faded back into the white light. It did this twice.

A man from Bradley saw it to the northwest between 7 and 7:15 p.m., Summer said.

Also, it was reported seen in the west by a couple driving from Laurens to Ware Shoals. A woman driving from Greenville to Greenwood said that it crossed the road in front of her at Hodges.

C. F. "Rick" Rickenbacker of Greenwood said that he was driving near Swansea last night and saw an object in the sky that looked like a full moon. He said that it was bluish in color with a white ray around it.

As he passed through Swansea, he looked to see if anyone else were watching it. He found a man standing beside a service station gazing upward, so he stopped and the two of them watched it together.

RICKENBACKER said that a young man came out and watched it with them and became frightened. While he was there another similar object appeared alongside the first, but it had a black stripe down the middle, he said.

Rickenbacker said that he drove on and when he approached Pelion the object dipped and went behind the trees. He said he had first sighted it at 6:30 and that it was 7:15 when it disappeared.

The Greenville News reported similar sightings in Greenville last night.

THE FEDERAL Aviation Administration control tower at the Greenville - Spartanburg Airport spotted the object which controllers said was in the Donaldson Center area at about 8,000 feet.

A spokesman for the tower said that the only explanation for the object was that it could be an "amateur rocketeer firing off rockets."

May 24, 2016 <https://www.facebook.com/860317120712234/posts/jimmy-carter-and-the-ufoi-am-a-native-atlantan-former-professor-at-ga-tech-and-l/1005394949537783/>

- I am a native Atlantan, former Professor at GA Tech, longtime admirer of President Carter, and longtime contributor to The Carter Center. After recently reading the book 'Georgia Myths & Legends', by Augusta Chronicle columnist Don Rhodes, specifically Chapter 5 'Jimmy Carter and the UFO', I am virtually certain that I have identified the source of what it was that President Carter saw.
- In the 1960s and early 70s I worked on an Air Force sponsored project that studied the upper atmosphere using releases of glowing chemical clouds, produced by rockets launched from Eglin AFB rocket range in Florida. Some of these chemical clouds, notably sodium and barium, were visible by the process of resonance scattering of sunlight. Clouds of this type had to be launched not long after sunset or not long before sunrise. This was due to the fact that the cloud had to be in sunlight at high altitude, while it was still dark enough at ground level for the cloud to be visible against the dark sky.
- In Carter's official 1973 UFO report, as given in the Rhodes book, he stated that he had seen the phenomenon in October, 1969, at 7:15 pm EST. However, it has been determined from Lions Club records that Carter must have seen the 'UFO' when he spoke to their Leary, GA Chapter on January 6, 1969.

JUSTUS 2

- The report 'U.S. Space Science Program Report to COSPAR, 1970' (QB504.U54, Appendix I, page 154), documents that there was a barium cloud launched from Eglin AFB (Rocket Number AG7.626) and released on January 6, 1969 at 7:35 pm EST (January 7, 1969, 0035 UTC) [COSPAR stands for Committee on Space Research]. The reported altitude for this cloud was 152 km. With a distance between Leary, GA and Eglin AFB, FL of about 234 km, this cloud would have appeared in the sky at an elevation of 33 degrees (consistent with Carter's estimate of a 30 degree elevation).
- Carter's report notes that stars were visible, so the night must have been clear. I can verify from personal experience that under clear skies, a barium cloud such as this would easily have been visible from the distance of Leary, GA.
- Carter reported the UFO 'appeared from West'. The direction of Eglin AFB from Leary, GA is approximately WSW.
- Thus this barium cloud at Eglin is consistent with Carter's reported 'UFO' as to time, elevation, AND direction.

JUSTUS 3

- Furthermore, the appearance reported by Carter is totally consistent with a high altitude barium cloud. His report stated that it was 'bluish at first, then reddish, luminous not solid'. A neutral barium cloud would initially glow bluish or greenish, with parts of it taking on a reddish glow as some the barium becomes ionized in the high altitude sunlight. The size and brightness, reported as being about that of the moon, would also be consistent with a barium cloud at Eglin, as viewed from Leary, GA.
- Carter has been reported as saying that he never believed that he had seen an alien spacecraft, but that he had no idea exactly what it was.
- I'm interested in exploring if this information could be relayed to President Carter, so that if he wishes to, he can better understand what it was that he saw back then. Do you have any suggestions? In the past few weeks, I have used several avenues for sending this information to the Carter Center Library and have yet to receive a reply. A Facebook Messenger inquiry to the Carter Library FB page provided me with the email address of Tony Clark, Public Affairs Director of the Carter Library. I emailed him the above information, but have yet to receive a reply.
- Thanks, Carl G. 'Jere' Justus

- Dr. Novella, As soon as I got this email from my grandparents, I knew I was going to forward it to you. I wanted to forward you the whole string since you came up in the discussion and I thought it was fun. Jay Kelly is my uncle by marriage. He is married to Amy. A professor from Georgia Tech ...emailed my grandfather's office regarding his experience with the Air Force with sodium and barium [JO: this refers to Justus] . My grandparents sent the story to the whole family without much comment, but that's how they often communicate fun and interesting stories or articles that they want to point out.
- As you can imagine, I've heard the story many times. Only two or three times from my grandfather though, and it always ends in a lesson, and it's always to one of his young grandchildren or great grandchildren.

- A memorable experience I've had was when he told it at his house, at in his driveway, retelling the story while pointing to the same part of the sky where he saw the UFO many years ago.
- We all know that the UFOlogists have latched on to the story as proof that Jimmy Carter saw aliens, but that's not how he told the story at all. He told the story as a lesson of his characteristic precision of language.
- It went something like this: My grandfather told us (Me, my brother Jeremy, and my brother Jamie) that he saw a UFO. To set the stage, we are all very young at the time (I was definitely less than 16, probably 13 or 14. That puts Jeremy at 11 and Jamie at 7 years old).
- Jeremy was very interested in aliens and may have mentioned something about it, he very well may have outright asked if there were aliens (when we met Bill Clinton, that was his only question) because he has in the past, and my grandfather casually stated that he saw a UFO. Of course, 14, 11, and 7 year old boys now have their grandfather's full and undivided attention.

- He said he saw a ball in the sky, then he pointed to the sky, and said the ball started blue, then turned red, then zoomed away.
- He waited patiently as we all form the conclusion that he saw an alien. Then he says casually that oh, it wasn't an alien, it was a UFO. We look at him puzzled, because we've never heard the difference, and he explains that it was Unidentified, it was Flying, and it was an Object. A UFO. He told us he suspected it was a rocket or something from Warner Robbins or Eglin, but he didn't know.
- When he was President, he asked the people that might know (the Air Force, Army, Pentagon), and he didn't get an answer. He laughed and said he didn't spend a whole lot of taxpayer money on it, just wanted to know if it was in a file somewhere. But UFO it remained.
- If the information from Professor Justus pans out, it might very well turn into an IFO, as long as we can agree that a blob of barium gas can be an Object...

Emails to Justus from Carter Center

- Dear Dr. Justus,
- I am writing in response to your communication to Bob Bohanan, who is a former member of the staff of the Jimmy Carter Library. He forwarded this to David Stanhope of the Library, who forwarded it to me, and I forwarded it to President Carter. Here is President Carter's response to me:
- S: You can tell him this could be accurate. About 25 Lions in Leary saw it. J
- Your explanation certainly is the most convincing that I have ever read. On behalf of President Carter, I thank you for this.
- Yours truly, Steven Hochman
- assistant to President Carter and Director of Research, The Carter Center
- AND
- I am grateful to you for your explanation and have made use of it. I have to remind people that UFO stands for unidentified flying object, not flying saucer.

“In 2016, upon reading Carter’s UFO report..., I realized Carter’s description fit very well with the characteristics of a high altitude, rocket-released barium cloud. This perception was based on my work during the 1960s on US Air Force and NASA research programs that launched various chemical tracers into the upper atmosphere by rockets. In the course of this work, I had personally observed releases of barium or other tracers at high altitudes (up to about 250 km). My observation locations had ranged over various distances from the launch site, in one case as much as about 1000 km (a high-altitude chemical release launched from Wallops Island, VA, observed from Sandy Springs, GA).”

Summary/conclusions

- 1 'BARIUM CLOUD' RELEASE HAVE FREAKED OUT WITNESSES FOR DECADES
- 2 IN RECENT YEARS THEY HAVE PROVIDED A SKY-WRITING RORSCHACH TEST FOR THE HOPES AND FEARS AND DELUSIONS OF MILLIONS OF PEOPLE
- 3 BY SO DOING THEY SEEM TO HAVE ENCOURAGED WILDER AND WILDER PUBLIC FANTASIES AND DISTRUST
- 4 BUT AS A BENEFIT, THEY ALSO HAVE SERENDIPITOUSLY PROVIDED MANY DOUBLE-BLIND CALIBRATION EXPERIMENTS REGARDING PERCEPTUAL ACCURACY
- 5 THEY HAVE ALSO PROVIDED GRAPHIC AND EMBARRASSING CALIBRATION OF THE INADEQUATE RELIABILITY OF MODERN UFO RESEARCHERS AND WRITERS
- 6 APPARENT FIRST CYNICAL PRINCIPLE: IF A WITNESS IS FAMOUS, NEVER EVER INVESTIGATE CASE DETAILS AND THUS RISK LOSING PUBLICITY VALUE
- 7 FROM THE BEGINNING, THE COMPETENCE OF ALL UFO EXPERTS REPORTING THE EVENT PROVED INADEQUATE
- 8 CRITICAL CONTRIBUTIONS FROM OUTSIDE EXPERTS PROVED THE NEED FOR SUCH HELP
- 9 IT'S WORTHWHILE TO STUDY 'UFO REPORTS' WHETHER THEY ARE 'REAL' OR NOT
